

COMMENTS ON CIA LIBRARY SERVICE

1. We have only commendation for the Library's efforts toward efficient and full servicing of requests.
2. But, we would like more browsing facilities and individual access to more materials. We submit the following suggestions for control measures which we feel would permit more individual access to the stacks:
 - a. Investigate the New York Public Library system of stacking shelves by size of item within broad subject groupings.
 - b. Supply each library user with a large, bright-colored plastic card which can be inserted into the place from which material has been removed.

Both these arrangements would make it easier for the library user to replace items properly. In addition, this would serve the library's ends in indicating the removal of material, should the user fail to replace the item.
